

Ride in the Light

for Mary Bok

A way to hold Mary's hand, and to thank her for being the light she was, and will always be.

*Come ride in the light that carries you over
To where you can be home in your dreams
Rest easy my friend, there's a long glowing river of love that will tend you wherever you be*

Open the door, there's light on the mountain
There's glisten and shimmer and clouds on the wing
And if it should be that there's just no tomorrow
We'll hold you in all of the songs that we sing

*Come ride in the light that carries you over
To where you can be home in your dreams
Rest easy my friend, there's a long glowing river of love
that will tend you wherever you be*

Then turn around, and look who's beside you
The young ones and old ones and us all in between We hold you strong as you've held us so often Through all of those days where it's hard just to be

*Come ride in the light that carries you over
To where you can be home in your dreams
Rest easy my friend, there's a long glowing river of love
that will tend you wherever you be*

© 2024 Cindy Kallet, BMI

This song appears on the album, Ride in the Light cindykallet.com