

Grey Larsen Music from Tuck Everlasting

From the score of the original 1980 Tuck Everlasting movie.

The first feature film based on Natalie Babbitt's novel Tuck Everlasting was made in 1980 by director Fred Keller. Malcolm Dalglish and I created a musical score which included both our arrangements of traditional folk music and our original compositions.

The centerpiece of the score, and central to the story itself, is the music played by the Mae Tuck's music box, the music of timelessness itself. Keller was pleased with both of my submissions for this theme, so we chose one for the music box, and used the other as a love theme for Winnie and Jessie, the young protagonists of the story.

Here are three solo piano renditions of these themes, plus three more in which I improvise an additional part on Irish flute. For the film score, I played the music box theme on the celeste.

Sheet music for these keyboard arrangements, as well as arrangements for recorder trio (soprano, alto, and tenor), are available at www.GreyLarsen.com.
